Supreme Council Action for the Ultrasound Program

The Supreme Council has entered into preferred pricing agreements with three ultrasound vendors: Neurologica, Philips, and Esaote. Given the KofC's volume of donated machines (1000+ in the past ten years), Supreme was able to leverage its buying power to lock in guaranteed pricing for three different machines from each vendor. The prices include a three-year maintenance contract, training, and free onboard shipping. Although PCCs can utilize other vendors, it is recommended that they select one of the three listed above when the KofC is donating money for an ultrasound machine.

Maryland's KofC Ultrasound Program

In Maryland, the KofC has donated 23 ultrasound machines to Pregnancy Care Centers throughout the state. Several councils are working with other PCCs to raise funds and prepare applications to receive ultrasound units. The State Ultrasound Program, however, needs additional funds to meet all requests. Can your council help? For more information about the ultrasound program in Maryland or to make a donation, contact Lawrence Grayson at LPGrayson@verizon.net.

Progress on a New Baltimore Pregnancy Care Center

The Center for Pregnancy Concerns, which operates at four locations in Arbutus, Baltimore City, Dundalk, and Essex, also owns a building directly next to the Planned Parenthood clinic on Howard Street in downtown Baltimore. This will be opened as a fifth site, as soon as the building can be rehabilitated. The Center is now soliciting design specifications and proposals, along with preliminary pricing, from contractors for completing the new site. This information will be used by the architect to finalize the plans and to apply for the building permits needed to commence the needed repairs. ## Abortions in DC

Washington, DC has a population of 713,000 people in a compact land area of 61 square miles. Yet, it has numerous abortion centers, including Washington Surgi-Clinic, Capital Women’s Services, DuPont Clinic, Planned Parenthood’s Carol Whitehill Moses Center, and Carafem Health Center and Abortion Clinic (which advertises itself in DC, but is actually just outside in Chevy Chase, MD). In addition, some hospitals, including Washington Hospital Center, and a number of doctors as part of a larger OB/GYN practice perform abortions.

Abortion is a thriving business in DC. The Guttmacher Institute, formerly the research arm of Planned Parenthood, estimates that in 2014 there were 32.7 abortions per 1,000 women of reproductive age, more than double the national rate of 14.6 abortions per 1,000 women of reproductive age. There certainly is a great need for pro-life activity in our nation’s capital.

Several pro-life organizations, including Priests for Life, 40 Days for Life, Georgetown University’s pro-life club Vita Saxa, and others, have conducted prayerful protests at the above centers. In addition, since being reinstated in September 2017, four Red Rose Rescues have been conducted at Washington Surgi-Clinic and two at Capital Women’s Services. In a rescue, several pro-lifers enter a clinic, where they pray, talk to the women awaiting abortions and hand them red roses with a pro-life message. Prominent among the rescuers have been Fr. Stephen Imbarrato of LifeMinistriesUS and Fr. Fidelis Moscinski of the Franciscan Friars of the Renewal.
